HERMAN A. FISHER

1966-1986

"A Student of Loyalty, Devotion, and Love"

He will be missed by all students, faculty, administrators, and staff of Florida Memorial College. We will miss the smile which stayed on his face; we will miss the songs that he sang; we will miss the joy that was spread from his heart; and we will miss his lovely presence.

HERMAN had to leave us for a little while.
Please do not grieve, shed wild tears.
Or hug your sorrows throughout the years.
But, start out bravely with a gallant smile;
And for his sake, and in his name, live on.
Do all things the same,
Feed not your loneliness on empty days.
But fill each waking hour in useful ways.
Reach out your hand in comfort and in cheer.
And he in turn will comfort you and hold you near.
Never, never be afraid to die, for
HERMAN is waiting for you and me in the sky!

Rev. Jesse Jackson challenged students to become socially involved in the events of our day during the kick-off of the fall James Weldon Johnson Lecture/Artist series.

REV. JESSE JACKSON INSPIRES ASPIRATIONS

On Wednesday September 25, 1985 the college family was honored to receive a guest speaker, the Rev. Jesse Jackson. A former Democratic Presidential Candidate hopeful and founder of Operation Push. The Rev. Jesse Jackson made an innovative speech. The focal point of his speech consisted of black's participation in current and local affairs; especially that of college students in the neighboring communities in which they reside. Moreover, he expounded by letting us know that it is our moral, and ethnic and political responsibility to be aware of issues that coincide with our fundamental rights. For example, black college students should be registered voters, in order to voice our opinion on local and national issues that infringe on our relative rights. Subsequently, Rev. Jackson tried to evoke in his audience the need for this generation to become politically aware and actively involved in the politics of today. Furthermore he instructed us on ways in which we could do this without being indignant or militant.

The speech given by Rev. Jackson was indeed refreshing and informative. It was a challenge to all black students who want to willfully take part in the struggle of today.

This is, above all, an exhibition about sculpture in space — how it changes and how our perception of it can change due to its surroundings. It celebrates the quality of our local artists and their contribution to our visual enjoyment.

KISSINGER HEADLINES "HONORS PROGRAM BANQUET"

The Honorable Henry A. Kissinger, who has been praised as one of the most brilliant Secretaries of State in the history of the United States, was the keynote speaker at the third annual Honors Program Banquet. The affair is annually slated as a major fund-raiser to enhance the Honors Program and provide scholarships to be awarded to honor students.

The $150-$200 a person dinner attended by hundreds at the Omni International Hotel and chaired by Richard G. Capen, Jr. chairman and publisher at the Miami Herald, raised over $100,000.

Currently, 200 students are participating in the program, which combines academic rigor, community activities, the campus' better living accommodations and opportunities for travel. And as the program grows, more students are expected to enroll, director Dr. Rosalyn Blake-Jones said, "More students than ever are inquiring about the program."

Besides being a major fund-raiser, the honors program banquet was the official headliner and kick-off for "Awareness Week" at Florida Memorial which introduced to some and presented to others the College campus. An open house featured a professional leadership breakfast displays, exhibits and information booths, outdoor jazz by the lake, a lecture by the Chancellor of the State University System of Florida and a musical theatre production.

Delivering the keynotes address during the College's 107th Founders' Day celebration, Congressman Edolphus Towns of Brooklyn, New York, urged students to regard themselves as role models who conduct themselves as responsible citizens in all places at all times.

Towns, who is also secretary to the Congressional Black Caucus, told students "determination and commitment are essential to progress," urging them never to listen to the doomsday criers but to face all obstacles with courage and dedication.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH

The history of February as "Black Month" began with a Virginia born black man named Carter Goodwin Woodson. Dr. Woodson strove throughout his lifetime to encourage Black Americans to look at their history. He founded the Association for the study of Negro Life and History in 1915. He set the foundation of Black awareness in the United States of America. On January 1, 1916, the Journal of Negro History was published by Dr. Woodson as a way to treat the race scientifically and to publish the findings to the world. Dr. Woodson was also responsible for founding the Associated Publishers, Inc. in 1912, which published books detailing the black man's place in history.

The annual observance of "Negro History Week" began in 1926, as a result of Dr. Woodson's aggressiveness. The second week of February was designated to observe this week because it coincided with the birthdays of the Great Emancipator Abraham Lincoln and the Black Journalist and Abolitionist Frederick Douglass.

Now that the observance has been changed into a month long event, the meaning of the observance has also changed. The month is set aside to instill a sense of togetherness of all racial groups. Also it was designed to develop a sense of mutual respect for people of different racial backgrounds and to remind all Americans of their racial identity.

HOMECOMING WEEK CELEBRATION

GREAT BLACK MEN

There's a small light in my heart that shines.
 When I think of those who put their lives on the line.
 Those who wanted to see their people's souls set free;
 but now are dead and have no chance to see.
 There is no doubt that many have gone:
 but their dreams still linger on.
 Their wisdom and knowledge was beyond their day.
 yet they left their greatness
 before they were laid down to stay.
 To make this world a better place,
 they died to give their people face.
 There has to be a reason why they lived.
 maybe it was just the opportunity to give.
 Those may be the reasons
 those great Black men risked their lives;
 just to see how their people could learn to survive.

HONORS PROGRAM

The Honors Program at Florida Memorial College is designed to recognize students who manifest superior academic ability and potential virtuosity in achieving and successfully implementing the knowledge they have acquired from the various course offerings. Institutions like Florida Memorial College have provided the nation with some noteworthy contributions. For example, they have provided the undergraduate foundation for 75 percent of Black Americans now holding Ph.D degrees; 85 percent of Black Physicians; 80 percent of the Black Federal Judges; 25 percent of the Black Elected Officials, and Black Businessmen and Women. Unfortunately, there are far too few who have successfully leap-frogged over the social and economic hurdles.

Students in the Honors Program are given the opportunity to pursue independent academic and intellectual growth, to the end that their innovative and creative thinking powers will develop into maturing and acceptable scholarship. The Honor students are required to produce more than is normally expected to demonstrate effective oral and written communication which exhibits a comprehensive grasp on integrated patterns of thought.

"We have sought exceptional artists and scholars on the local, state and national level in an effort to expose students to the best minds and talents in the humanities area. Our intent is to broaden students' cultural and personal development."

*Dr. Rosalyn Blake-Jones
Chairperson, Division of Humanities
Director of Honors Program*

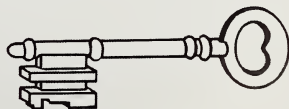

The mode of thinking of the Honors student must reflect depth and superiority based on rigid disciplines of mind and thought. Honors students are relentlessly encouraged to attain academic excellence in all areas of the Honors Program and related disciplines. So that they might become knowledgeable and versatile scholars.

Requirements

Entering Freshman with a high school GPA of 3.0 or above are eligible for full participation in the Honors Program, which include academic scholarships, special housing, and Honors Seminar. Freshman and Sophomores in the program must follow the Honors Program curriculum for the first and second years, unless a schedule adjustment has been approved by the Director of the Program. Juniors and Seniors must select at least nine credits per major semester from the list of courses offered in their major or minor disciplines. All registrations, add/drops, or schedule adjustments MUST be approved by the Director of the Honors Program. Any adjustments made without the permission of the Director may result in the possibility of the student being separated from the program.

Currently enrolled students who are not members of the program, but have the necessary GPA, have the opportunity to apply for membership in the Program. Further information may be obtained from the Director of the Program.

TEACHER OF THE YEAR

Roosevelt Williams, The Florida Memorial College Ambassador Chorale conductor has always had a special kind of dedication to music from his days as a Junior High School singer and as soloist in the high school chorus. Upon graduation from high school, he entered Bethune-Cookman College where he spent four years as tenor soloist and Student Conductor. By the time he was graduated from college, his established ambition was to direct a choir of his own.

He accepted a job as choir Director in the Brevard County School system at Monroe High School, Cocoa, Florida. Some of the finest choirs in the State of Florida were produced under Mr. Williams' direction.

To expand his musical talents, he went on to earn a Masters Degree in Music from the University of South Florida in Tampa, Florida. In 1975, he accepted the greatest challenge of his career — that of Choir Director and Chairperson of the Music Department at Florida Memorial College in Miami, Florida. Under his leadership, The Florida Memorial College Ambassador Chorale has become known as The Chorale with Class and the repertoire to fit any occasion.

The staff of the Arch and the student body wishes to extend their gratitude and affection to Mr. Roosevelt Williams, Teacher of the Year.

Freshman wins $5,000 scholarship awarded by TIME

Florida Memorial College freshman Anthony A. Ikaiddi of Oron, Nigeria, was chosen as the winner of the sixth annual TIME Education Program Student Writing Contest, a national essay writing contest for high school and college students. As winner, he was awarded a $5,000 college scholarship and a three-year subscription to TIME Magazine for his essay titled "Africa's Future! How Certain?"

Mr. Ikaiddi's winning essay was selected from among hundreds of entries submitted by students across the United States and Canada. The essay examines the contradictory yet complementary impulses shaping the future history and development of the African continent.

Mr. Ikaiddi's entry was sponsored by Florida Memorial College's Assistant Professor of Reading, Elizabeth Ligon. Contest entries are evaluated by a panel of educators and TIME Staff members, including senior writers and editors. Entries were judged on the basis of originality, demonstration of research skills, knowledge of subject matter, effective use of language or design, clarity, spelling grammar and punctuation.

TIME Education Program Manager, Ester Davis Connelly, in announcing the award, noted Mr. Ikaiddi's essay demonstrated the balance between hard facts and humanism that characterizes effective writing.

Mr. Ikaiddi is the son of Charles and Atim Ikaiddi of Oron, Nigeria.

"Africa's chances of success, however, stem from the foundation of the first pessimistic conviction, i.e., the clear recognition of Africa's present dire condition. Just as the recognition of weakness may be the beginning of strength, provided one has the knowledge, determination and will to transform ignorance into knowledge, weakness into strength and poverty into wealth."

THE AVIATION SCIENCES PROGRAM

The Florida Memorial College Aviation Sciences Program was established in 1984 to provide academic training to individuals interested in every field of the aviation and transportation industry. The program itself has been approved by the University Aviation Association and the Federal Aviation Administration.

The Program is also responsible for the coordination of an FAA training program. Students accepted by the FAA will participate in an intensive cooperative program at Florida Memorial College and at the FAA Center in Miami. Graduates of the program are placed in various positions within the FAA, especially as Air Traffic Controllers.

The Program also coordinates the United States Air Force and Army Reserve Officers Training Programs with the University of Miami. Students participate as cadets for a period of two to four years. Successful completion of the four-year program leads to a commission as a second lieutenant.

The Aviation Sciences Program offers the Bachelor of Science degree in Aviation Science. It will provide students with a strong conceptual foundation in mathematics, science, computer science and management, in addition to a background in the areas of entry level jobs in specific career fields in the aviation industry.

"We have the unique distinction of being the only predominantly Black college in the country authorized by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), and only one of five institutions to offer all five academic programs in the Aviation Sciences program ...."

Ground-breaking Prepares For $4.5 Million In New Construction

Formal ground-breaking ceremonies were recently held to prepare for construction of the William Lehman Aviation Center and the James C. Sams Student Activity Center costing about $4.5 million, with the aviation center costing about $3.8 million and the student activity center about $700,000.

Funds to construct the student activity center were received through private donations from the two church-related conventions in the state which support the College. Namely, the Women's Auxiliaries of the Baptist General State Convention of Florida and the Progressive M & E State Convention of Florida. Construction for the multi-purpose will result in a $700,000 expansion of the existing student dining hall. The student activity center, targeted for completion by Spring 1987, will house offices for student affairs staff, meeting and conference rooms, additional dining space and space for social and cultural functions.

Florida Memorial Collaborates With Neighboring Opportunity School

For years, Florida Memorial College and Jan Mann Opportunity School have had an informal relationship. On February 19, 1986, the College formally established Jan Mann as its laboratory school, forming the first such partnership in Dade County and possibly the nation.

Conveniently located next door to Florida Memorial, Jan Mann is a temporary alternative for junior high-age youngsters with discipline problems.

Through the adoption program, would-be teachers at Florida Memorial will start their practical training in classes at Jan Mann. The College will also provide tutoring and counseling to students, while including them in campus events and programs and provide use of college facilities like the computer and science laboratories.

"The goal," said Paul Bell, associate school superintendent for education, "is to make a difference to the youngsters at Jan Mann, who are mostly from inner city neighborhoods."

Dr. C.T. Wright, vice president for academic affairs at Florida Memorial College, said "many of our students have begun to aspire to being part of the establishment. We feel that they can offer role models for the students at Jan Mann."

"This will not be a traditional lab school. We expect to create a model that can be emulated nationally."

FRESHMEN SYNDROME

Fear is that what we feel on one of our biggest trips away from home?

Joy, joy, at being on our own;

Does it outweigh the insecurities of being alone?

New people, a new place, brand new faces, could possible tear a proud heart in two.

Accomplishing goals, making friends, and having fun are things we really plan to do.

Portraying a good image, and getting into things that swing, play a big part in college too.

However, remember the grades, the goals, and the promises that we have made to ourselves so true.

Personality has a lot to do with the matter even if you are strong, weak, outgoing, or shy. It's up to you to push yourself, hold on, and stop feeling blue.

SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Every one of us who has full use of his/her mental or physical capabilities and faculties can appreciate the opportunity to participate in the Olympic games, by knowing what each athlete does to prepare mentally and physically for the world-wide spectacle. We must further appreciate what it means for those less physically fortunate to have that same opportunity.

We the Brothers of Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity, Phi Phi Chapter located here at F.M.C. were proud to be the best of the Mini — Special Olympics here on F.M.C. campus. The Special Olympics consisted of a fun-filled afternoon allowing some 75 mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed and physically handicapped participants to demonstrate the best of their athletic abilities. In such events as 50m, 100m, 400m dashes 4 x 100m relays, 25m, 50m wheelchair races plus standing long-jump and softball throw events. Each event was awarded 1st, 2nd, 3rd place medals, additionally each participant received ribbons and certificates were given to all attending agencies.

That afternoon fulfilled the dreams of many persons and we Phi Phi chapter are pleased that the participants, families and agencies, the college family and our community friends equally benefited from this tremendous service project.

Special appreciations are extended to Florida Memorial College, especially President Willie C. Robinson, Gourmet Food Services, Mr. R. Wilson and Mr. D. Gordon, all participating agencies and contributors to the Special Olympics last but not least our chapter President, William Frierson who diligently sought to make this project a reality.
